Tina began her legal career as GMSR's first Appellate Fellow. During the fellowship, she worked on a wide variety of appeals, writ petitions, and amicus briefs. As an associate, she assists GMSR's clients using her thoughtful approach to legal research and analysis.

Tina graduated from Loyola Law School. She gained extensive appellate experience during her time there, including externing for Justice John L. Segal at the California Court of Appeal, briefing, arguing, and winning a Ninth Circuit immigration appeal that resulted in a published opinion, and working as a law clerk for GMSR.

In her spare time, Tina enjoys puzzles, traveling, live music, and watching Survivor.
